The Gleichen Call.

Year I., No. 6. GLEICHEN, ALBERTA, THURSDAY, APRIL 25, 1907. $1.50 Per Year

TOWN AND DISTRICT

A meeting of the rifle association is called for next Monday night at the Palace Hotel for the purpose of completing arrangments for the season's shoot. The secretary has received word that the rifles have been shipped from Calgary and as the range has yet to be got in shape a full attendance of members is required. There is already some talk of inviting a number of the Calgary crack shots down for the grand opening shoot, just to show our boys how to make big scores, and a lively interest will be taken in all matters concerning the association. Don't forget the meeting is next Monday night.

D. L. Cameron returned Saturday from Montreal, where he has been seriously ill for a few months, and his many friends were pleased to see him once more, although he still looks far from being his former self. Mr. Cameron's illness was the result of long continued over-work, which all but cost him his life, yet he is a busy man again, but says that as soon as he can get his business affairs straightened out he will take life comparatively easy for a while. Shortly before coming west he took unto himself a wife and is receiving the congratulations of his friends.

Sunday a car load of land seekers from Illionis arrived at Gleichen, and accompanied by Geo. H. Walsh, head salesman for C.P.R.L.C.Co., drove north in search of land. They were well pleased with their stay here, and it is understood some fifteen members of the party declared their intention of buying land within a few miles of town.

Chas. Millie of the firm of Millie & Wilson, returned last Saturday from Scotland where he has been on a visit since early last fall. He was accompanied by his sister, Miss Millie, and they were met at the depot by a large number of friends and acquaintances, who welcomed them back to town.

W. H. James' new block is all but complete, and the painters are now putting on the finishing touches. Saturday night it was all lit up with gasoline lamps and presented an appearance that would do credit to any city in the province.

J. M. Telford's new block on Fifth avenue is now completed and is a credit to the town. Wakefield & Milliken were the building contractors, and Duhaime & Firth have just completed the work by the touch of their artistic brushes.

The work of putting in the ferry across Bow river was started Monday, but it was found necessary to do considerable repairs and a force of carpenters went down for that purpose Tuesday.

A dance is to be given in the Foresters hall tonight—Thursday—in honor of the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Gillespie and Miss O. McArthur, who leave in the morning on a trip to Ontario.

Wakefield & Milliken are erecting a two-story office building 16 by 16 feet and drying sheds 18 by 70 for W. Stuart & Co., and are also building 900 feet of skids on Third Ave.

L. Thiesmeyer with his wife, daughter and his mother, arrived from Elk, Wash., last week with two carloads of effects and are locating on land near Snake river.

Saturday the local contractors were figuring on contracts for building the new sidewalks the ratepayers recently voted to build.

J. T. Shoetridge and John Eagle are here from Milan, Wash., figuring on locating land.

A Firemen's dance will be given on Thursday, May 2nd. Now get ready for a good time.

Emil Scholtz arrived last week from Elk Wash., and will locate at Snake river.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY

The first annual meeting of the Gleichen branch of the Womans Auxiliray of the Church of England in Canada was held at the resident of Mrs. Craig April 18th, with a full attendance of members. After listening to an interesting and instructive address from the Rev. Canon Stocken, missionary to the Blackfoot Indian Agency, followed by a few words from the President, Mrs. Stanley Stocken the meeting proceeded to the transaction of business. The Treasurer's statement, which was most satisfactory, was read and adopted. The officers elected for the ensuing year were; President Mrs. Stanley Stocken re-elected, Vice-President Mrs. Harrison, Secretary Mrs. Dickenson, Treasurer Mrs. James, re-elected. Dorcas Committee: Mrs. Landels, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. James and Mrs. Rose, the latter is secretary of committee. It was decided that the meetings of the society be held monthly. The next meeting is to be held the 2nd Wednesday in May at the residence of Mrs. Landels.

Special Board of Trade Meeting

The Gleichen Board of Trade held a special meeting Tuesday evening for the purpose of hurrying up the building of the new government bridge across the Bow river south of Gleichen, as provided in the estimates passed at the recent session of the Legislature. After thoroughly discussing the situation the members voted to send Messrs. Harry Scott and D. B. McNeil to Calgary to discuss the subject with the Hon. Mr. Cushing and to urge upon him the necessity of the immediate construction and location of the bridge, owing to the large number settlers already located south of the river, whose numbers are daily increasing; also the danger of fording the river and the great inconvenience these new settlers now have of getting to their homes and to town for their mail and supplies.

A regular meeting of the Board is called for tonight, and all desirous of becoming members are requested to attend, when important business will be transacted.

What Others Say

Here are a few extracts from the many letters received at this office of kind expression for The Call, which go to show that Gleichen is attracting attention far and near, and we desire to sincerely thank one and all for their thoughtfulness and hope to merit all the nice things they have said and predicted.

Dear sir: We desire to thank you for a number of copies of the Gleichen Call which have been forwarded to this office, and we are pleased to note the many kindly expressions you have offered concerning the Canadian Pacific Railway irrigation project.

We believe that there is a first-class field for a live paper in Gleichen, and we desire to congratulate you upon the very creditable start you have made in this direction. Please be assured of our hearty co-operation in any line of effort looking toward the development of Gleichen and vicinity.

Yours very truly,

Canadian Pacific Irrigation Colonization Co., Ltd.,
per H. H. HONEN.

Calgary, Alta., April 13, 1907.

Dr. Thomas Spence, Crookston Minn: Dear Sir,—Put Mr. S. A. Wallace and myself down for one year's subscription to your infant newspaper. We visited your town about a year ago, and judging from the advertising matter you carry the town has not been asleep the past twelve months, and from all reports I predict a much more rapid growth in 1907. Wishing you much success.

Something New in Weed Inspection

Published by special request of Geo. Harcourt, Deputy Minister of the Department of Agriculture at Edmonton: The Alberta Department of Agriculture is making a new departure in weed control. Believing that it is possible to do something else by way of combatting the spread of weeds, besides ordering the destruction in summer of crops which are badly infested with them, the Department has sent out all the weed inspectors in the Province for a week to see what can be done towards persuading farmers to adopt methods of cultivation which will tend to encourage the germination of weed seeds and the destruction of the young plants before the crop is grown.

With this object in view, last summer the local inspectors were furnished with a book in which they noted those farms that were very dirty and which seemed to require special attention. They were thus enabled this spring to proceed without loss of time to the worst places to discuss the weed situation with the owners and to leave them the following circular as a memorandum for their guidance. It contains suggestions which may be useful to other farmers besides those who had to be visited on account of having dirty farms.

"It is always best to burn the stubble off in the spring if possible. This destroys many weed seeds and the land works better when there is no stubble.

"Disk as early in the spring as possible and harrow. This covers the weed seeds and encourages their germination.

"When the small weed plants are seen all over the field the land ought to be disked and harrowed again to destroy them and encourage the germination of a new crop.

"About the beginning of June the land should be plowed and packed if possible, and if not, at least harrowed every day as it is plowed, and a crop of beardless barley sown. It is safe in Northern Alberta to sow this barley up till the middle of June.

"When the crop is about six inches high it will be found of great advantage to harrow it as it will destroy any weeds which may have sprouted, and help to encourage the growth of the crop.

"If there is still a quantity of weeds in the crop when it approaches maturity, it may be cut as green feed before the weeds are ripe. Usually, however, it will be found that the growth of barley will choke and kill any weeds which may come up afterwards.

"Where fall wheat is grown this method of disking and harrowing at frequent intervals during the summer should be continued till it is time to plow for the fall wheat.

"Note.—It is particularly important to disk and harrow as soon as possible in the spring and also to harrow the growing grain when it is six inches high."

BOUGHT TWO FIRE ENGINES

Last Thursday evening a well attended meeting of the Gleichen ratepayers convened in J. J. Marshall's office to discuss fire protection, when Overseer Cosgrave occupied the chair and introduced Mr. R. S. Bickle of Winnipeg who gave a somewhat lengthy address on the advantage of chemical engines. Mr. Bickle has the sale of the chemical engines manufactured by Obenchain & Boyer of Logansport, Indiana. At the conclusion of his address a general discussion arose and many questions were asked of Mr. Bickle, who found little difficulty in answering them to the advantage of his engines. Several of those present were anxious to have the matter of purchasing an engine left over until prices and particulars could be obtained from other manufacturers, but the general sentiment of the meeting was that delay was dangerous and immediate steps should be taken to secure adequate protection for the town. The question of financing was keenly discussed for a long time, also that of procuring a suitable location for a fire station and the cost of building a station. Numerous motions were submitted only to be amended or abandoned before a seconder could be had, but finally the following motion was read and adopted:

Moved by G. Wakefield and Emil Griesbach, that we purchase the two engines as per the proposal made by Mr. Bickle, herewith attached, namely:

"We hereby propose and agree to furnish the town of Gleichen, Alberta, the following fire apparatus, to be delivered on board cars at Winnipeg at the earliest date after this proposal is accepted. One single forty-five gallon portable chemical fire engine and one sixty gallon eqqipped with ladders, (60 gal) as per specifications in catalogue. engines to have 45 and 60 gallon chemical tanks, aluminum steel, seams riveted and brazed, galvanized inside and out. tested to 300 pounds to the square inch, and equipped as follows: Two 1¼ inch A grade wheels, 48 inches in diameter, 1¼-inch tread; 1¼ inch best steel axel; one chemical box to carry two full charges; one metal hose basket to carry hose; 100 feet hose; one shut-off nozzle; one pressure gauge; one charging funnel, and six charges of chemicals. The above fire apparatus to be constructed, finish and painted in a first class manner, and equipped according to above specifications. All material and workmanship is warranted to be of the best, and we agree to replace at our expense any defect in material or workmanship that may develop within two years. Said engine sold subject to final test before acceptance and to include drilling of fire brigade. Terms; for the sum of $850 payable by two notes, one for one year from date of acceptance, bearing 6 per cent interest and one for two years bearing 8 per cent interest. (Signed) Robt. S. Bickle.

After passing the above motions the meeting adjorned with a vote of thanks to Mr. Marshall for the use of his office.

Harry Scott was in from his ranch, five miles north, last week and stated he intended to commence sowing grain on Monday.

E. Griesbach is again to the front with his usual enterprise and states he will have a sidewalk built along Gleichen street this season.

J. O. H. McCoy's new sign is an attractive and artistic piece of work and Messrs. Duhaime & Firth, the paint artists, are receiving many compliments for their good work.

W. PARK EVANS, - - - Publisher and Proprietor.

Gleichen, Alberta, April 25, 1907.

From time to time the Department of Agriculture at Edmonton has received notice of outbreaks of anthrax in cattle from various sections of the Province. This is not a disease coming under the provisions of the Contagious Diseases Act of the Dominion Government. As the provisions of this act are enforced by the veterinary surgeons of the R. N. W. M. P., acting under the direction of the Dominion, these officers have taken no action with regard to destroying the carcases of animals that have died from anthrax. As it is a very contagious disease, and the germs are liable to spread from dead animals, it is absolutely necessary that carcases be buried in order to stamp out the spread of the disease.

Where the Dominion law fails to make provisions for the destruction of these carcases, a new Provincial Health Act makes the necessary provision, and the deputy-minister has been good enough to send The Call a copy of the sections dealing with contageous diseases amongst farm animals, which we deem of sufficent importance to give a place here. Following are the extracts from the Public Health Act 1907:

81. Whenever a cattle beast is ill with anthrax, glanders or rabies the owner of such animal, as well as the veterinary surgeon, if any, called to attend it, shall at once declare the existence and nature of such disease to the medical health officer of the district who shall at once give notice to the provincial health officer.

85. The medical health officer or provincial health officer shall at once cause to be isolated in a completely isolated apartment or in a special building or enclosure any animal which he knows or suspects to be sick with anthrax, glanders or rabies and such premises so isolated shall remain so until the animal dies or recovers and the premises are disinfected in the manner described in Schedule 10.

86. Whosoever attends to an animal sick with anthrax or glanders shall not attend to other animals nor enter any house without having previously disinfected his person and clothes.

87. Bodies of animals which have died of anthrax or glanders shall not be skinned but shall within six hours after death be burned or buried under three feet of earth, after having been covered with quick lime a foot deep.

The decision of the ratepayers to invest in fire protection is a move in the right direction and one that they may have reason to congratulate themselves upon at any hour after the arrival of the engines. All were fully aware of the importance of immediate steps being taken to secure adequate protection, and while the business was rushed through with more dispatch than seemed warrantable to some, and the suggestion that time be taken to get catalogues and prices from other manufacturers was certainly sound logic which no one will dispute; yet, as was pointed out, the necessity for protection is too urgent a matter to let stand for any length of time, which would surely have been the case had it been laid over. However, the recommendation from such an authority as the chief of the Winnipeg fire brigade for these particular engines is a very strong point and no doubt accounts largely for the quick decision arrived at. Furthermore, Mr. Bickle's statement that when the engines arrived if the ratepayers find they are not up to his representations or they are not satisfied with the engines he will take them away without any cost to the town also had its influence. The cost of the engines is not very great and if they are nearly as efficient fire-fighters as represented it is a good investment.

There should be no "factions" in this little city of ours. Every improvement made enhances the value of all property in and surrounding our town. We should live as one big family, and we believe few towns can show up a more progressive and intellectual family. We have as few "black sheep" in our place as any flock in the province. When there is discord in the family there is little progress. When there is a united pull there is little we cannot accomplish. Envy, jealousy and hatred pull us all down. Envy is a canker that gnaws at the heart and makes one sour, disgruntled and unhappy. Jealousy makes one unfair in passing judgment; hatred does not pay even from a sordid point of view. Let us all be friends and pull together and show our neighbors what a large and harmonious family can accomplish in building up a town.

To be sure the departmental stores tell you that if their goods are not satisfactory you can return them. Sure! But you have to pay express or freight both ways and you decide to keep them. If your home merchants' goods are not satisfactory you take them back and it costs you nothing, besides you may have the pleasure of jawing them

The Gleichen Call

A CALL to the landless of the world to settle on the unoccupied, fertile irrigated lands of "Sunny Alberta" surrounding Gleichen, the heart and centre of these lands.

A CALL to the professional man, the artisan and the laborer to make his home in that Gleichen, which is certain to be one of the most prosperous towns in "Sunny Alberta".

A CALL to the capitalist and the investor to invest in a town and district, which will without any doubt repay his investments a hundred fold in the future.

A CALL to those in search of health—the greatest of all earthly blessings—to come to a Province becoming famous as a Land of Sunshine, neither enervatingly torrid nor frigidly arctic—a happy climatic medium.

A CALL to those now here to work for the interests of that Gleichen they have made their home, to work for its present interests and its future welfare; to work unselfishly and unitedly for its advancement and prosperity. To work and never rest content till "Our Town" reaches a higher and a higher and a still higher position, nor to cease their endeavors 'till at last she takes her place as one of the foremost cities in fertile, mineral endowed, healthy, beautiful, Sunny Alberta.

S. M. DICKENSON.

The Professor is Away Out.

"Man,' the wooer? No. Man is the pursued. He is the victim. Woman, lovely woman, is the pursuer," declared Prof. E. A. Ross, head of the sociology department of the University of Wisconsin, in an address.

"The women are the ones decorated and adorned and they decorate and adorn themselves to please the men. They dress to catch the eye of men, because it is on men they must depend for their living. The women are not productive, but must depend on the men for their subsistence. By dressing and adorning themselves, and making themselves beautiful in the eyes of men, they are able to secure a home and livelihood.

"Men are the burden bearers. They must do hard work. They have no time for decorating. Women, having the leisure, are enabled to attend to display. And by the display which the women are enabled to make, their position in the world is fixed. The woman with the ability to make the most display stands highest."

Professor Ross is away out, at least so far as the West is concerned. Having lived in the West for more than 15 years we have noticed that "man is the wooer," and that lovely woman has a duce of a time to keep him off. Why, nothing would tickle The Call man half so much as for the professor to ship out a train load of feminine pursuers and have the job of finding men for them to pursue. It would be a snap. The professor should just come out West and note when a fair lady steps off the express how the boys rush home to shine their boots, get on a hard b'iled shirt and "decorate." Pshaw, talk about burden-bearers. Our boys are dead anxious to take on all the feminine burdens the professor can load them up with.

Why the Dakota Farmers Are Coming

The following from an exchange no doubt to a very large extent explains why so many Dakota farmers are coming to Gleichen, where they can be neighborly and enjoy all the comforts of life:

"Yes, sir" resumed the Dakota farmer, as the crowd of agriculturalists seated themselves around a little table, "yes, sir, we do things on rather a sizable scale. I've seen a man on one of our big farms start out in the spring and plow a straight furrow until autumn, then he turned around and harvested back, we have some big farms up there, gentlemen. A friend of mine owned one, which he had to give a mortgage on, and I pledge you my word the mortgage was due at one end before they could get it recorded at the other. You see, it was laid out in counties.

"And the worst of it is it breaks up families so. Two years ago I saw a family prostrated with grief—women yelling, children crying and dogs barking. One of my men had his camp truck packed on seven four-mule teams and he was going around bidding everybody good-bye." "Where was he going?" "He was going half-way across the farm to feed the pigs," replied the Dakota man.

"Did he ever get back to his family?"

"It isn't time for him yet. Up there we send young couples out to milk the cows and their children bring home the milk."

OBSERVATIONS

BY "LITTLE MACK"

My dear Evans: following up our letter conversation re the Thaw trial, I see the jury has disagreed and he is to have a new trial.

One Stead went to jail for uncovering London's foulness. What he said of London might be safely repeated of New York. And so the question lifts its head; what are these minute men of morality, the clergy doing in Christian abatement of the evil? Here abide the Minatour: where is that pulpit Theseus who makes war upon him? Truly now if like certain frocked and pulpit folk I wot of I were professionally virtuous and earning a salary for assailing vice, in face of what openly and flagrantly is, I should return my pay-check as something I had not earned.

The Rev. Madison C. Peters says:

"Harry K. Thaw is the sort of man New York is cursed with—men who boast of the fair young lives they have degraded; animals devoid of heart and conscience, luxurious in inherited wealth, whose lives are so notoriously corrupt that their very touch is pollution and their embrace is social and moral death. Thaw belongs to a lot of Pittsburg young multimillionaires who are conspicuous about New York's fashionable cafees and whose joy in life is to open to innocent women the gates of sin, and whose chief occupation is to degrade women. These young men who have millions to spend, which they inherited, are opening the door to shame through which these some women would never enter by deliberate choice.

"The fast life of our cities is sapping the physical strength and manhood of the nation. White, if all accounts are true has gathered the bitter harvest of suffering and degradation which follows a fast life—the swift retribution which curses a man who falls into the sin of unchastity. The tragedy preaches a sermon to the rich sons of indulgent fathers who are galloping through a course of infernal revelry, enduring the agonies of a shattered life and then dying like dogs.

"After all what is morality? Is it living in conformity with divine law? Is it the instinct which enables us to to know and appreciate good? Is it the power by which we overcome temptations? Morality is both active and passive. The former is the lifelong struggle with the spirit of evil. Its field is the field of human life. There it creates character and satisfies the largest demands of the deity. The latter is shown in the condition of a child who has been kept away from the world by its parents and whose only conception of good and evil is based upon precept. Passive morality without experience is always theoretical, negative, and worthless. It is an attribute of the spirit and belongs to the ideal life. But a practical morality is the fruit of the spirit working through the flesh in the arena of the world where it is a vital element in the code of human ethics. We can have no character for virtue; we can not become entitled to the confidence of our fellow countrymen until we have thoroughly tested our theories and strength of purpose in the practical issues of daily life. Our Mother Eve was at first invested with abstract morality but in this state she had no character. It requires temptation to form character and we all know how she acted under temptation. In the struggle she fell and so proved that the only morality of value to man or woman in this life is that positive morality which is able to meet, grapple with and overcome all forms of temptation.

"It is time we learned that innocence is not morality, and that one can avoid evil best by knowing what it is."

You should also consider that woman's natural vanity is fostered, and that she is taught that dress is one of the most important of earthly considerations; that she has been made dependant, and that in order to get money and the things which money buys she must look to others. To those who supply her wants she is of course grateful, and this gratitude often leads to her undoing. It was thus that White effected the ruin of many girls, and he has an abundance of imitators; in fact, as the Rev. Mr. Peters says, the Thaw and white tribe are always in search of such prey, finding an abundance of it. Mrs. Juliet V. Strauss recently wrote in the Chicago Journal:

"It seems to me that the world has of late gone pleasure-mad.

"One notices it in all classes of society; everybody wants to shift the heat and burden of the day upon other peoples' shoulders. Young and ignorant girls are the most pitiful victims to rich and idle women's lives. They grasp wildly at a phantom of fine ladyhood in the shape of big hats, gaudy parasols and lace-trimmed petticoats. They long for carriages, beaux, flowers, dancing, and they find a cheap imitation of the life they crave in a few wild months of madness before trouble comes and all ends in misery and squalor. Money is all that stands between the fine lady and the poor girl, whose head is dazzled by the sight of her. In the cities people are spending the precious days of their lives living and working for the salvation of poor girls, striving to give them glimpses of the pleasure they long for so they will not get it in a forbidden way. Trying to teach them the beauty of holiness and to open before them the sweetness and light that lies along the narrow path of duty. It is a blessed work.

"Then too there is woman's desire for a lover; for some one to pay attention to her; to take her about. All this is simply womanly; it is innocent; but it leads straight down to the pit; and one cannot help asking why God made it so."

Of course all of this does not in any degree mitigate the offences of the Whites and the Thaws. Man is woman's natural protector, and his chivalry should take the form of shielding her innocence instead of taking advantage of it and blasting her life. If society were organized upon really civilized lines such men would be impossible for there would be visited upon them a larger measure of disgrace than upon their victims, but under our barbarous and unjust code it is the less guilty who always suffers. As the editor of the Chicago Journal says:

"Men may sin illimitably, it seems, and then when age or disgust makes them want to return to decent society that society welcomes them with open arms. No obstacle is placed in their way. 'Joy shall be in Heaven over one sinner that repenth more than over ninety and nine just persons that need no repentance,' and this is true of earth also, when the repenting sinner is a man. But when it is a woman that wants to get away from her past and lead a pure honest life every thing seems to be against her. Not only do virtuous woman give her the cold shoulder, but the men who shared her shame in the old days pursue her even beyond the marriage altar, and she is considered fair game by every man thereafter who learns that she was once a loose woman. It is often said that when woman falls she falls much lower than any man does in the beginning. This is probably not true, but, if it were true might not the reason be that the fallen woman knows how nearly impossible it would be for her ever to to reform, however earnestly she might try to do so? Whatever the reason—whether it is to be found in nature, which discriminates against the woman by visiting upon her material and visible consequences of sin, or whether it is to be found in the fact that the laws and the society organized under them were made by man—the truth remains that woman has almost no chance at all to recover her self after she has taken the first false step. It is unjust but it is a fact."

Many of us seem to overlook the fact that woman is by nature confiding and that she is slow to suspect treachery in the man who professes to be her friend. It is by taking advantage of her affectionate confidence that many of her sex are led astray by human reptiles of the Stanford White type.

Yours very sincerely,
M. McDonald.

Industry calls it "pluck," indolence calls it "luck."

Lend a helping hand. If a man is unfortunate, try and lift him up. The people who knew this or that was going to happen, the "I told you so" people, are a detriment to the community. If they would always say a good word instead of a discouraging one, how much better things would be. Study and know the interest of your home. Buy of home merchants. Stay at home nights. Attend some church, look forward to good times and all will feel better, be happier and enjoy life better.

The New York Sunday World says that at Nice, Southern France, this story is going the rounds about two American women, who were but slightly acquainted: The elder, finding herself somewhat forcibly elbowed at an afternoon party, turned round to confront the younger one, who was vigorously pushing a way through the crowd to get near an Imperial Highness who was present. The offender, with a hasty smile, said: "Oh, I am sorry but I don't mind pushing you." The icy reply from an elevated lorgnette was: "No I have always been told you were a very pushing person!" But she reached the Prince.
